LMHS Employees Have PRIDE

Licking Memorial Health Systems (LMHS) employees have been displaying a lot of PRIDE recently. PRIDE (Providing Resources In Dedicated Employees) is an LMHS employee fund-raising campaign that generates money for specific projects within the health system.

LMH Development Council Community Relations Chair Cindy Steen talks to employees about PRIDE.

LMHS employees donate money and become members of PRIDE, which first kicked off at LMHS in 1987. The latest campaign took place July 12

In addition to learning about how PRIDE benefits LMHS and the community, employees attending PRIDE Idol meetings were treated to special in-house entertainment and free refreshments.

100 Top Hospitals BBQ

Licking Memorial Health Systems (LMHS) recently threw a 100 Top Hospitals barbecue bash for all employees and visitors. The free cookout included entrees of steak and chicken, as well as ice cream sundaes. LMHS executive staff donned their servers' caps for the day to show appreciation to the Health Systems' employees and visitors to Licking Memorial Hospital that day.

"We're pleased to continue our ongoing celebration of our 100 Top Hospitals award," said LMHS President William Andrews. "This is a fantastic achievement, and everyone in our community should be proud of the Hospital. The award is a highly coveted honor in the health care industry." In May, Solucient named Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) as one of the nation's 100 Top Hospitals for a sixth consecutive year. LMH is one of only two Central Ohio hospitals on the list and one of only eight hospitals statewide to achieve the 100 Top Hospitals distinction.

Green Light Performance

Licking Memorial Hospital's (LMH's) clinical staff has received recognition from the VHA Inc. for achieving "green light" performance on selected parameters related to the treatment of acute myocardial infarction. VHA Inc. is a national organization that works with hospital teams nationwide to achieve green light performance on selected and reportable parameters, explained Patty Merrick, Patient Care Supervisor in the LMH Cardiology Department. Merrick said hospitals that achieve those goals demonstrate success of evidence-based clinical improvement efforts.

Medical Informatics

Licking Memorial Health Professionals (LMHP) is undertaking an initiative that will further enhance its medical operations and care through the use of the latest information technology.

As part of this endeavor, Gerald R. Ehram, M.D., an Internal Medicine physician with LMHP, will assume new duties as LMHP's Director of Medical Informatics. Dr. Ehram will continue his role as an LMHP practicing physician but will now also dedicate one day each week to his new position. As Director of Medical Informatics, Dr. Ehram will work closely with Christine L. McGee,

Dr. Ehram

RN, LMHP Vice President of Physician Practices, to direct the design, development and efficient use of computers and information technology to accomplish the stated goals of the new initiative. Those goals include promoting quality, cost-effective medical care, as well as improving patient safety and patient/health provider/staff satisfaction throughout LMHP.

Licking Memorial Health Systems (LMHS) donated an $11,000 thermal imaging camera to the Newark Township Volunteer Fire Department. LMHS representatives presented the camera to Newark Township Fire Chief Tim Ridenbaugh on June 25 at the fire station, which is located at 310 Deo Drive. The high-performance thermal imager enables firefighters to scan an area and view images produced by heat instead of light. Anything that puts off heat shows up as a white image in the camera, while variations in temperature are shown as shades of gray. "The hotter the temperature, the easier the image is to view," Ridenbaugh said. He noted that the device also detects body heat, including heat imprints left by a person, which allows firefighters to find victims in a fraction of the time they might without the cameras.

In addition to helping save lives, the technology can serve as protection against property damage resulting from fire evaluation, Ridenbaugh continued. Firefighters will be able to use the camera to search for hot spots in walls instead of further damaging structures to check inside the walls, he said. "We are elated with this generous donation," Ridenbaugh said. "It would have been an additional three or four years before we would have the funding to purchase something like this."

Bill Mann, Chairman of the Licking Memorial Health Foundation Board of Directors, is pleased that the technology will give the fire department another tool for improving safety. "It gives our volunteer firefighters the potential to save more lives," he added. "It really does benefit everyone who lives in and around Newark."

The donation of the camera to Newark Township marks the fourth time in the past few years that LMH has donated such equipment to area fire departments. LMHS President Bill Andrews said the donated cameras further demonstrate the Health Systems' commitment to safety. "We place a very high priority on safety," he said. "We value the safety of our patients, visitors and employees. By donating the thermal cameras, we're able to better protect others in the community – including area residents and the emergency personnel who will utilize the technology." Ridenbaugh said the fire department will use the cameras not only in Newark but also in surrounding areas.

PRIDE ...

LMH Fiscal Department employees Cindy Davis and Cindy Webster were the co-chairs for the recently completed 2004 PRIDE campaign. Supporting Davis and Webster was a committee of approximately 30 other employees who represent the entire health system. "LMHS is a vital resource to the community, and PRIDE allows employees the opportunity to give a small portion back to the system to support its mission," Cindy Davis said.

Cindy Webster agreed. "Our employees truly do care about the hospital and health system," she said. "This campaign demonstrated the commitment and dedication that our employees have for LMHS."

As part of this year's PRIDE campaign, Cindy Davis, Cindy Webster and their committee organized a PRIDE Idol tour. Employees enjoyed seeing LMHS co-workers sing, dance and draw laughs. "This was a fun way for employees to show support and help get others excited about the PRIDE campaign," Cindy Davis said.

The committee for the 2004 PRIDE campaign had the opportunity to choose an LMHS project for which the campaign's funds would be used. The committee selected the Waiting Room area for the Emergency Department, which will be part of an upcoming major renovation. "We're so pleased to be able to coordinate this worthy campaign and to see the eventual improvements made possible by what we've accomplished," Cindy Webster said. "Employees who participate can know they are contributing to the progress we see here at LMHS," Cindy Davis added. "PRIDE donations make improvements possible and keep our hospital competitive."

Granville Thrift Shop

TWIGS 6

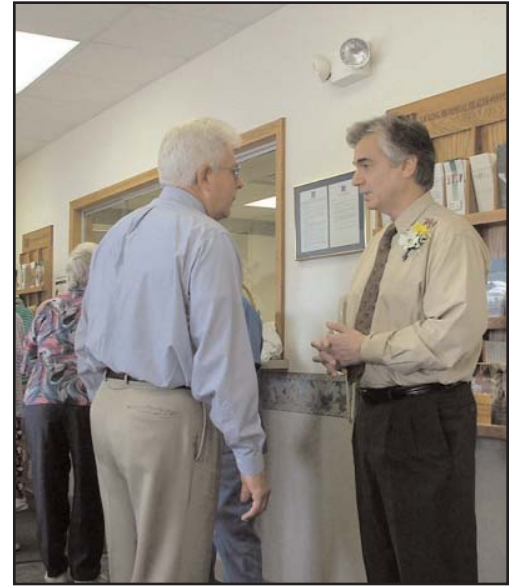

Since 1950, Licking Memorial Hospital's TWIGS (Togetherness, Willingness, Imagination, Giving, and Sharing) organization has conducted fund-raising activities to generate more than 3.8 million for the hospital.

TWIGS 6 manages one of those many projects, the Granville Thrift Shop. Proceeds from sales at the consignment shop, which is located at 454 S. Main St., in Granville, benefit the hospital.

For more information about store hours, including consigning hours, call LMH at 348-4044, or call the thrift shop at 740-587-3047.

Five-Year Anniversary

Licking Memorial Health Systems celebrated the five-year anniversary of Licking Valley Medical Center and on-staff physician, Douglas N. Schram, DO, with a community reception on June 6. Licking Valley Medical Center is part of Licking Memorial Health Professionals, a group of more than 70 health care professionals dedicated to improving the health of the community. The celebration took place at Licking Valley Medical Center, which is located at 2181 W. High St., in Hanover. Attendees enjoyed refreshments and received giveaways. Dr. Schram has practiced family medicine at the office since it opened. He said the reception was a wonderful way to thank patients and their families. "Our office truly is a vital part of this community," Dr. Schram said. "We wanted to bring people together to thank them for their patronage over the past five years, as well as to look forward to our exciting future."

Dr. Schram (at right) meets with local businessman Jerry McClain at the five-year anniversary reception of Licking Valley Medical Center. The celebration took place at the Hanover practice in June.

Informatics ...

President George W. Bush recently has been noting the importance of information technology usage in the health care industry. He has requested funding for the 2005 proposed national budget to boost information technology efforts in health care. And, he has called for every person in the United States to have a personal, electronic medical record within 10 years.

Dr. Ehsam said electronic medical records are "revolutionizing" the way physicians practice medicine because they provide tools that enhance care for patients. "Electronic records incorporate best-practice guidelines that automatically evaluate each patient in the practice," he explained. "They also provide reminders to the physician for any preventive measures (immunizations, cancer screening, testing for specific diseases) that need to be performed on patients. For patient safety, electronic records check all medications prescribed for any drug/drug interaction or allergies."

Dr. Ehsam pointed out that some experts estimate that less than 10 percent of the outpatient facilities in the country currently use electronic medical records. However,

LMHS has long been dedicated to quality and four years ago gave physicians in the Health Professionals group the opportunity and encouragement to develop this type of record. "We are excited about the potential that exists," Dr. Ehsam added. "In addition to our electronic records, we are looking to develop an Internet product with which patients can securely view their test results with explanations of the various tests; obtain information regarding illness; and schedule appointments – all online."

McGee pointed out that LMHP approached Dr. Ehsam about filling the new role after the organization determined it needed a physician to be more heavily involved with its effort to utilize computers and information technology in the practice of medicine. She said this unique LMHP initiative will result in the enhancement of its Intranet portal product and improved use of Logician, the computer program LMHP physicians utilize to measure and analyze patient care and data.

Additionally, she said LMHP expects to see improvement in safety programs, as well as quality programs for items such as immunization rates, cancer prevention and disease management. "We're very excited about the groundbreaking things we can accomplish now that we have Dr. Ehsam and a dedicated team in place to take on the technological initiatives that are important to our organization, as well as to our community," McGee said.

Dr. Ehsam noted that the new project is another example of the innovative programs that have become customary at LMHS and its continued effort to improve the health of the community.

"These types of efforts are ultimately what lead to Licking Memorial Hospital becoming one of the nation's 100 Top Hospitals," Dr. Ehsam said. "The Health Systems' leaders have the foresight to implement these internal projects which directly result in improved patient care. We exist to improve the health of the community, and that's exactly what we're doing. We will provide the Health Systems, the community and our patients with valuable information regarding our quality of care. At LMHP, we not only want to say we provide quality, we intend to prove it."

Vitamins Donated for Mission Trip

Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) Pharmacy Director Jeff Smith has been on a mission – literally. In June, Smith was part of a missionary trip to deliver medical supplies to the tribal people of the southern Philippines' Samal Island. Included in those supplies were 11,000 vitamins that LMH is donating.

"This is another way for me personally, as well as Licking Memorial Hospital, to reach out and help others," said Smith, who has worked at LMH for 16 years. "In this case, those we are assisting happen to live on a tiny island thousands of miles from our hospital." This is the fifth such trip for Smith, who went to the small island in the Philippines this past January as part of a project with his church, Spring Hills Baptist Church, in Granville.

LMH donated vitamins for that trip, as well.

Smith and several members of the church's congregation make the missions not only to deliver medical supplies but also to help construct churches and provide hope for the 30,000 tribal residents there. He said he and his fellow travelers bring with them a multi-faceted inspirational message. "It's wonderful to be able to travel to a place so far away to help people improve their lives," Smith said. "The vitamins and medical supplies we take help the tribes' physical health, and the assistance we give them constructing churches helps their souls. It's a perfect mix."

He plans to continue his missions in the future. "We've built a special rapport with the island's residents," Smith said. "They know we're coming back, and they enjoy it as much as we do." He also looks forward to LMH's continued involvement. "Licking Memorial Hospital truly is a caring place," he added. "I am so thankful for the compassion everyone here has shown by supporting me personally and by donating the vitamins for these trips."

Cornerstone Club Campaign

During an upcoming fund-raising campaign, Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) Development Council hopes to attract 130 new Cornerstone Club members. To be a Cornerstone member, an individual, couple or business must donate a minimum of $100 annually to the hospital. The campaign kicks off in October.

The Cornerstone Club was founded in recognition of and deep appreciation for Licking Memorial supporters. This group of community leaders is the foundation of LMH's success because it is dedicated to ensuring that the latest advances in medical technology are available to the citizens of our community.

The Development Council works closely with LMH's Providing Resources In Dedicated Employees (PRIDE) organization to raise funds for LMH. Community Cornerstone Club and PRIDE Cornerstone funds have helped:

- renovate the Emergency Department and Outpatient Testing areas;
- purchase of a second mammography unit for the LMH Radiology Department;
- renovate the Maternal Child, Coronary Care, Intensive Care and Outpatient Surgery units;
- purchase a state-of-the-art color digital imager for the Cardiology Department;

LMH Pledges to Protect Environment

Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) has entered into a partnership with "Hospitals for a Healthy Environment" (H2E), a landmark initiative dedicated to improving environmental performance in health care. Jana Meyer, Vice President of Support Services for Licking Memorial Health Systems, explained that LMH – as an official partner in H2E – will work toward accomplishing several environmental-improvement goals. Those include:

- The virtual elimination of mercury in hospitals by the year 2005
- Reduction of total waste by 33 percent in 2005
- Reduction of total waste by 50 percent in 2010
- Minimization of persistent, bioaccumulative, and toxic pollutants

"We also have pledged to voluntarily assess our waste management and environmental programs, collect H2E baseline data for tracking national progress, and establish specific goals to achieve significant waste reduction," Meyer said.

The H2E program is a joint effort of the American Hospital Association, American Nurses Association, Health Care Without Harm, and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The H2E program recognizes hospitals for developing and implementing innovative programs to reduce the environmental impact of their facilities. "Licking Memorial Hospital is helping raise the standard for hospital involvement in pollution-prevention issues," Meyer said. "Our decision to join this endeavor is based on the premise that one critical way to improve the health of the community is to protect the environment we all share." More than 775 partners representing approximately 2,700 health care facilities have joined H2E. For more information, visit www.h2e-online.org.

Green Light ...

LMH recently received green light status for the last quarter of submitted data regarding heart attack patients, Merrick said. This represents success in each of the five performance measures, with LMH achieving a goal of 90 percent or better for all the parameters. Measures include:

- Aspirin upon arrival
- Beta blocker upon arrival
- Aspirin upon discharge
- Beta Blocker upon discharge
- ACE inhibitor for patients with systolic dysfunction

Merrick said LMH also reached 100 percent compliance with smoking cessation education upon discharge. "This is a terrific tribute to our clinical staff. They put forth a tremendous effort every day to ensure the best possible care to LMH patients, and this achievement is a direct reflection of that," she said.

2004 Nursing Award for Clinical Excellence

A highlight of National Nurses' Week activities at Licking Memorial Health Systems (LMHS) in May was the naming of Linda Crothers-Hurst, RN, as the LMHS 2004 Nursing Award for Clinical Excellence winner. She has been a Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) Emergency Department nurse for 25 years.

Crothers-Hurst

Crothers-Hurst, RN

Crothers-Hurst started working at LMH in 1976. She worked in the Medical/Surgical units until 1979, when she transferred to the Emergency Department.

Linda is a 1975 Central Ohio Technical College graduate and is certified in Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS) and Pediatric Advanced Life Support (PALS).

She has served on the hospital's Policy and Procedure Committee and is an active member of LMH's Personnel Relations Advisory Committee (PRAC), Providing Resources in Dedicated Employees (PRIDE) and Pain Committees.

"Linda is a past LMH Cares Award recipient, and she has consistently demonstrated excellent clinical skills, leadership ability and the highest quality of care for her patients throughout her career," said Debbie Young, RN, Vice President of Patient Care Services for LMHS.

Magnet Designation Sought

The Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) Nursing Department is hard at work in pursuit of Magnet Designation. Members of the LMH Magnet Committee are pictured above. The American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC) awards Magnet Designation to organizations that demonstrate excellence in nursing. The LMH Nursing Department will submit an application and documentation that demonstrates excellence in nursing.

"The benefit of Magnet Designation is the recognition of current nursing practice and the opportunity to implement new processes that exemplify nursing excellence," said Debbie Young, RN, Vice President of Patient Care Services for LMHS. "We are proud of our nurses, their abilities and their dedication to their field. That is why we are striving to attain Magnet Designation." Interdisciplinary cooperation is necessary for nursing excellence and Magnet Designation. Licking Memorial Hospital will conduct numerous events over the next several months to promote the journey to Magnet Designation.

LMH Recognized for Safety

The Ohio Hospital Association (OHA) has recognized Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) for its exemplary safety programs and superior employee safety records. The honor comes as part of this year's Ohio Hospital Safety Campaign. The OHA-sponsored campaign divided 109 participating hospitals into nine groups based on employment. LMH was recognized for having the lowest injury rate in its hospital group (751 to 1,000 employees).

"We place the highest priority on our safety programs," said Licking Memorial Health Systems President William Andrews.

"We focus not only on patient safety but employee safety as well."

The OHA and the Industrial Commission of Ohio created the safety awards in 1953 to promote workplace safety. As part of this year's Safety Campaign, participating Ohio hospitals submitted workplace safety information based on federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration regulations. The number of on-the-job injury cases requiring days away from work ranged from zero to 115 among all participating hospitals. The total number of days missed ranged from zero to 2,456. The OHA also considered injury rate per 100 full-time employees. The injury rates for 2004 ranged from zero to 5.79, with a 1.63 average for participating hospitals. LMH's injury rate of 0.69 was significantly below the average rate.

Cornerstone ...

- propel Licking Memorial Health Systems (LMHS) into the ages of advanced communications by developing a system which will utilize voice, data, images and video technology to enhance patient care;
- implement phase one of a communications system that connects all entities of LMHS by computer or telephone; and
- purchase a third mammography machine so that services would be expanded at Licking Memorial Women's Health.

Cornerstone Club donations are used only to provide new medical equipment and expanded services. They do not assist with general operating expenses.

Ashley Wade, vice chair of the Development Council's Annual Support Committee, has been involved with the LMH Development Council for several years. She noted the importance of the community banding together to support LMH. "Donations from Cornerstone Club members help our community hospital offer newer technology and better services than would be available without their generosity," said Wade, whose mother, Barbara Cunningham, began LMH Development Council in the mid 1980s. "This is the first time in a few years we're conducting a Cornerstone fund-raising campaign, and I'm thrilled to be part of it. This campaign will generate funds and give the community a chance to support the vision and mission of the hospital."

Physician Spotlight: Douglas N. Schram, DO

Douglas N. Schram, DO, has found his professional niche – and his enthusiasm is obvious. Dr. Schram is a Licking Memorial Health Professionals family practice physician who practices with LMHP's Licking Valley Medical Center, in Hanover. He is in his sixth year with the practice, and he couldn't be more pleased with the situation. "My preference is to practice in a small, rural town," Dr. Schram said. "This has been extremely gratifying for me – a dream come true."

Dr. Schram

Dr. Schram, who moved to the Central Ohio area in 1976, has been practicing medicine for 28 years. He is a board-certified emergency medicine physician and practiced that specialty for 17 years. He also is board certified in family medicine and been a family physician for the past 11 years.

When Dr. Schram first joined LMHP at the Licking Valley office more than five years ago, he had no patients. Today, he has close to 3,000 patients in his practice. "Some days I would see only two patients," he said, recalling when he first began at Licking Valley Medical Center. "Now it has grown so much, and I see about 30 to 40 patients a day. I don't consider it a chore – it's something that comes naturally. I like doing it, and it's something that has to be done." Prior to practicing with LMHP, Dr. Schram operated a private office in New Concord, Ohio. "I was working as a solo practitioner," he said. "That meant I was on call 24 hours a day, without a break. By coming to LMHP I've been able to practice medicine heartily, but I have a lot of the administrative work taken care of. That way, I'm able to focus more on patient care. And, I'm with an LMHP on-call group that provides me with time off that I did not have before coming here."

Dr. Schram, who has a wife, two sons and a stepson, sincerely enjoys the community in which he practices. "I am attracted to the rural area, and I enjoy practicing here immensely," he said. "I'm very integrated into the community; they've made me feel welcome. I would say they've embraced me. I sponsor baseball teams, a football league, and I've acted as a team physician. I've also helped train area emergency medical technicians, given lectures, held open houses, and participated in community events. It's been a real good fit, and I have enjoyed it 100 percent."

Even though his patient list is quite lengthy, Dr. Schram still accepts new patients who are age six months or older. His office is located at 2181 W. High St., in Hanover. Office hours at Licking Valley Medical Center are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, and 8 a.m. to noon on Wednesdays. The phone number is 740-348-1720. "We're very accessible," Dr. Schram said. "We see patients within 24 hours if they need an appointment."

Dr. Schram pointed out that he emphasizes service and performance in his practice. "By 'service' I mean we like to see patients as rapidly as we can based upon their needs," he explained. "By 'performance' I mean we like to not only see them on a timely basis but also we make sure they receive the care, treatment and appropriate follow-up assessment."

Nursing ...

A total of 21 LMHS nurses were nominated by their peers for the award: Susan Benner, RN; Cathy Boykin, RN; Jackie Chesterson, LPN; Linda Crothers-Hurst, RN; Terra Culver, LPN; Marketys Dailey, RN; Carol Dondrea, RN; Sonia Hankinson, LPN; Rachel Jones, RN; Jody Kline, RN; Vickie Lemmon, LPN; Yvonne Long, RN; Patricia Love, RN; Sue Maier, RN; Ruth McCarty, RN; Liz Nye, RN; Earlene Stedman, RN; Barb Stough, RN; Melissa Tackett, LPN; Luann Untied, RN; and Notasha Westbrook, RN.

"Many examples of excellence were demonstrated in the nomination forms for each of these candidates. However, three nurses in particular were identified as truly stellar in all areas of nursing practice and patient care," Young said. Crothers-Hurst, Jody Kline and Patricia Love were named as finalists.

Jody Kline, RN

Jody is a 1985 graduate of COTC and started her nursing career in CCU. Ten years later, she transferred to Outpatient Surgery. Jody is cross-trained in PACU and is ACLS certified. She has served on the Pharmacy Committee and is a trained Super User for the Pyxis Medstation.

Kline is a past LMH Cares Award recipient and is described by her colleagues as a role model and superb clinician. She is highly respected by her peers and physicians. Jody is patient- and family-focused, providing outstanding care everyday. She is dedicated to patient advocacy.

Kline

Patricia Love, RN

Patricia (Patsy) Love has been a staff nurse at Licking Memorial Pediatrics since March 2001. Her close ties to Licking Memorial, however, date back to 1981.

Love's experience includes the LMH Pediatric Unit, Family Practice and the Shepherd Hill Adolescent Substance Abuse Unit. Patsy obtained her nursing degree from COTC in 1983 and received SART certification in 2000.

Her co-workers describe her as always willing to take on any task and as a valuable asset to LMHS. Love is known for her clinical excellence, professionalism and exceptional patient service.

Ask-A-Doc: Douglas N. Schram, DO, Licking Memorial Health Professional Family Practice Physician

Q: I hear a lot about heat-related illnesses, especially in the summertime. What are some simple steps I can take to avoid distress due to heat?

A: Be sure to stay hydrated so you will sweat. Sweating is the primary way your body gets rid of extra heat. When you sweat and the water evaporates from your skin, the heat that evaporates the sweat comes mainly from your skin.

As long as blood is flowing properly to your skin, extra heat from the core of your body is pushed to the skin and removed by sweat evaporation.

Dehydration will make it more difficult for you to cool off. If you are dehydrated you won't sweat as much, and your body will try to keep blood away from the skin to keep your blood pressure at the right level in the core of your body. But, since you lose water when you sweat, you must make up that water to keep from becoming dehydrated.

The best fluid to drink when you are sweating is water. Sport drinks are fine, too, but water typically is easier to obtain.

The clothing you wear makes a difference, too. The less clothing you have on and the lighter that clothing is, the easier you can cool off.

Basically, it's important to be sensible about how much you exert yourself in hot weather. The hotter and more humid it is, the more difficult it will be for you to get rid of excess heat.

As always, if you have questions or concerns about heat you should talk to your family physician.
